

4 March 2017

Two local Fremantle schools, South Fremantle and Hamilton Senior High Schools, will amalgamate at the end of the 2017 school year, opening in January 2018 as Fremantle College, a new school on the former South Fremantle site. JCY Architects are responsible for the design and construction of a new performing arts and theatre building at the front of the school as well as refurbishments to a large area of the existing school building, many of which date back to the late 1960s.

The new buildings and refurbishments have created a modern feel to the school buildings, which won design awards in 1969. Students and staff are enjoying the new facilities with their light and airy learning spaces that still maintain many features of the original design and build.

The new blocks and refurbished buildings and surrounding grounds will create a visually appealing, modern facility that will continue to address student needs well into the future.

Neil Wilson, Deputy Principal (Transition)